

Evolution Markets Licenses cQuant.io Software in Further Expansion of Structured Transaction Capabilities

Houston, TX and Denver, CO (November 10, 2022): Evolution Markets Inc. (“Evolution Markets”), a leading provider of financial and transactional services in global energy and environmental markets, announces a strategic licensing agreement with cQuant.io (“cQuant”), a leading energy and data analytics Software as a Service (SaaS) provider based in Louisville, CO.

Under the agreement, Evolution Markets will utilize cQuant’s price simulation, renewable energy, and battery storage analytic offerings to assist clients in procuring or selling renewable energy and managing energy price risk. The deployment of cQuant’s data analytics tools will further power Evolution Markets’ flexible and cost-effective “Structuring as a Service” outsourcing program focused on solutions for the net zero economy.

“Our wholesale and retail corporate power customers are requiring more advanced energy data analytics capabilities from us in support of their businesses. cQuant’s platform offers Evolution the ability to scale usage as our renewable and advisory businesses grow,” noted Brian Beebe, Managing Director of Structured Transaction Solutions.

David Leevan, CEO of cQuant.io, commented, “We are pleased to work with Evolution Markets in support of its environmental and structured transaction markets expansion. Our solutions allow customers like Evolution to analyze its energy portfolio’s value, risk and hedge effectiveness. cQuant.io plus Evolution Markets will be able to deliver superior results to customers with this joint offering.”

Evolution’s Structured Transaction group provides comprehensive consulting services to help companies identify trade opportunities, set, and meet, their risk management goals. “We’re excited to see this important new partnership drive business and enhance value for our customers,” added Beebe.
